

National Center for Fathering Train the Trainer

ABOUT OUR TRAINING

The National Center for Fathering (NCF) is the premier source for father training, providing research-based training for fathers and for organizations that work directly with fathers. Offering dynamic, hands-on instructor training, NCF provides complete instructor materials and proven techniques for training dads. Trainers are prepared for fathering presentations and seminar leadership by:

- Interacting with other men committed to training fathers - exchanging ideas and experiences.
- Learning about and sharing presentation and facilitation approaches to enhance impact.
- Understanding the trainer's role using instructor guides, supporting materials, and experience of other trainers.
- Ongoing exchange of best practices and updates to father training materials.
- Receiving ongoing support and evaluation from the National Center for Fathering.

TRAIN THE TRAINER PROGRAM

The Center has trained more than 1,000 trainers and 2,500 small-group leaders nationwide using the following curricula:

Quenching the Father Thirst – Designed for fathers in challenging situations, this training is based on research conducted by the Center and our experiences with local court initiatives. This program provides “culturally” relevant material that addresses relationships with women, contributing physically, economically, educationally and spiritually to your children and many issues for fathers of fragile families.

Connecting With Your Kids – Recommended for general audiences, social service agencies, schools, businesses, hospitals, and others, Connecting With Your Kids is based on Dr. Ken Canfield's The Heart of a Father. Training covers the impact of fathers on a national and individual level, and presents a framework of practices to help dads connect with their children and strengthen or prepare for marriage.

The 7 Secrets of Effective Fathers – Geared towards the faith community, this training is based on Dr. Ken Canfield's best selling book The 7 Secrets of Effective Fathers. This program is ideal for churches and organizations desiring spiritual foundations for husbands and fathers. This program covers the great power of fathers, barriers to effective fathering, and the framework of effective fathering practices.
